(New York, New York) – Ireland’s breakthrough, UK platinum-selling rock band, Kodaline, release their latest EP, I Wouldn’t Be today at all digital providers. The EP features four brand new tracks written by the band and recorded at The Vale Studios in Worcestershire.

In addition, they released a music video for “Ready To Change (click here to watch).

Like their stunning single ‘Brother’, released earlier this year, the collection of songs on the ‘I Wouldn’t Be’ EP showcases the band’s ability to straddle genres while retaining a strong sense of identity and ranks among their best work.

Kodaline are - singer Steve Garrigan, guitarist Mark Prendergast, bassist Jason Boland and drummer Vinny May. The band has released two studio albums, In A Perfect World and Coming Up For Air, have over 200 million views on Vevo, over 2.1 million streams on Spotify worldwide and have played sold out shows and major festivals all over the world.

Their music has been heard in several television, film and ad placements including Chicago PD (NBC), Grey’s Anatomy (ABC), Modern Family (ABC), So You Think You Can Dance (FOX), American Idol (FOX) and so much more. The group has performed on various US television shows including FOX’s American Idol, CBS’ The Late Late Show With James Corden, NBC’s Undateable, NBC’s The Tonight Show With Jay Leno, among others.

Most recently, Kodaline was featured on Kygo's 2016 global hit "Raging" and has been in the studio putting their final touches on their upcoming album due out early next year.
