As a co-writer, “I Want You,” spotlights Daniel’s many artistic talents, as a writer, singer, instrumentalist, and dancer. Daniel’s multi-dimensional talent is on trend, blending pop elements with Latin flare and edge.

About Daniel Skye

Flaunting both a high-powered delivery and a knack for clever writing, Hollywood, FL born, now L.A. resident singer and songwriter Daniel Skye brings a fresh fire to modern pop. Within three short years, he has amassed over 42 million streams worldwide, logged countless miles on the road with the likes of Demi Lovato and Bebe Rexha, and earned critical praise from Seventeen, Idolator, Tiger Beat, Just Jared, Perez Hilton and more.

Inspired by everyone from Justin Timberlake, Bruno Mars, and The Weeknd to Lil Uzi Vert and Migos, Daniel quietly sharpened his vocal chops in the most classic way—by tirelessly singing in the garage. He also taught himself guitar by watching videos online. Eventually, he launched an Instagram page and attracted a following by posting 15-second covers of famous pop songs. He performed on the 2014 Sunsation Tour across North America, documented in his music video for his first single “Maybe.”

After relocating to the west coast in 2015, Daniel teamed up with social media sensation Cameron Dallas for the viral smash “All I Want,” which debuted on iHeartRadio, reached #12 on the iTunes Top Pop Songs Chart and racked up 20 million-plus Spotify streams and 26 million YouTube views. RCA Records in 2016. Between releasing “Feelin’ You” [feat. R. City], “Stuck On You” [feat. PnB Rock], and more, he supported Bebe Rexha on tour and graced the iHeartRadio festivals alongside Shawn Mendes, Flo Rida, Dua Lipa. Earlier this year, Daniel released new track “Say It” with teen sensation Baby Ariel.
