Lolo Zouaï, the budding global pop star returns with a remix of-“Galipette” featuring rising South Korean K-POP star BIBI. Expertly weaving between her two mother tongues French and English, Zouaï takes “Galipette” to an even more hypnotic headspace with BIBI contributing a compelling flare of Korean that adds to the already electric track. Combining multiple styles, genres, and even languages, into a concise, sharp, and potent attack, the “Galipette” remix proves that Lolo Zouaï’s it factor is universal.

The original single, “Galipette” (meaning “somersault” in French and also slang for rolling around in the sheets) has garnered over 2M streams worldwide since being released at the end of June. The striking music video, directed by Amber Grace Johnson (Jorja Smith, J Cole, Kali Uchis) stars Nia Dennis and other National Champions of the UCLA Gymnastics team. The success of both the song and music video presented Zouaï the opportunity to perform a live session on Vevo's hit series, Vevo Ctrl. She has also recently featured in COACH's 2021 Camo Campaign, her third with the iconic brand. Zouaï has already accomplished so much and yet it feels like the beginning, with more boundary-pushing music coming soon.
